Kentucky Crop Report.

Frankfort, Ky., July 7.—The June crop report for Kentucky as compiled by Commissioner of Agriculture M. C. Rankin, is as follows:

OATS.
"One of the best crops of oats that has been raised in Kentucky for the past ten years is shown by the crop reports for this month, and a larger acreage is shown." The reports show that this crop has suffered less from excessive rains and cool weather than almost any other crop and with plenty of sunshine and dry weather for harvesting the crop the farmers will derive more from the present oat crop than from any crop for many years. The condition shows a percentage for the whole State of 94.

TOBACCO.
"The largest acreage of tobacco as reported as having been planted than for many years, on account of being set late, and with favorable weather conditions there should be more pounds of tobacco raised, per acre, yet the quality, no doubt, will be somewhat inferior."

WHEAT.
"There remains much wheat to be cut. Some fields are very irregular and thin. Some fields that looked badly three weeks ago have turned out fairly well. The rust has affected the wheat but little and no reports of 'scald' have been made, as there were at this time last year. The condition of wheat as shown by the reports is 80 per cent of an average crop."

CORN.
"Corn throughout the State is somewhat discouraging and is at least ten to fifteen days late. The cool, rainy weather has retarded the growth of the early planted corn considerably, causing a great deal of it to be planted the second time, and the condition shows an average of 74 per cent. at the present time, which is considerably lower than an average crop of preceding years."

Death of Mrs. Phillips

Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock Mrs. Eusebia Phillips died at her residence on east Main street in this city, following a four weeks illness of pneumonia. She had been in declining health for several years. Mrs. Phillips was 69 years of age and was a daughter of Capt. and Mrs. John A. Burton, of Perryville, and a sister of the late Judge B. A. Burton. In April, 1893, she was married to the late Mr. James G. Phillips and has since resided in this community.

The funeral services were conducted at her late residence Tuesday morning by Rev. W. P. Baird and Rev. C. H. Prather, the present and former pastor of the Methodist church, of Lebanon, of which Mrs. Phillips had been a member and to the support of which church she had so liberally contributed, and interment was in Ryder cemetery.
Decased is survived by a sister, Mrs. Augusta Roberts, of Hendersonville, N. C. and four children, Mrs. E. N. Handley, Miss Bird Phillips and Messrs. John B. and T. O. Phillips, of this city.—Lebanon Falcon.

DIED AT HARRODSBURG

W. H. Morgan, a Former Resident of this County.

A death that has caused universal sorrow is that of Mr. W. H. Morgan, who passed away Tuesday night about 12 o'clock after an illness of only about forty-eight hours. Sunday while at church he was stricken with paralysis and shortly passed into unconsciousness, from which he never rallied. Apparently he was in his usual health when he went to Sunday school, where he taught a class of about sixty in which he was feeling well at the time, but just before service began he spoke of being drowsy. During service it was noticed that he seemingly dozed a little, but when church was over he had to be assisted to the door, and was taken immediately to a physician's office, who pronounced his affliction to be paralysis. A little while later he sank into unconsciousness. Mrs. Morgan was a member of the well known grocery firm of Morgan Bros., and had lived here about ten years, being a native of Washington county. He was a representative citizen, a man prominent in all good movements, and identified with best interests of the town. A devout member of the Christian church he was faithful and liberal in all his dealings with that body, and constant to its teachings. His funeral was held in the church Thursday afternoon at 4 o'clock, conducted by the pastor, Elder W. H. Smith, and the remains were taken to Lawrenceburg on the 5:40 train to the residence of his brother, and from there will be interred today in the Lawrenceburg cemetery. A number of relatives accompanied the body, and beautiful floral offerings bore mute testimony of the love and esteem of his friends. He leaves a wife, but no children.—Harradburg Herald.

Mr. Morgan was well known in this county having been engaged in the Dry Goods business at Kirkland for several years. He was a good business man and had the confidence of all with whom he dealt. As a Republican he ran for Representative in the Legislature, and was elected, being the only Republican elected to that office in this county for a long time. In 1907 he ran for County Judge on the Republican ticket but was defeated.

CREAM OF HOPS

And Like Concoctions Can Not Be Sold in Local Option Territory.

Last Friday Attorney General Breathitt decided that "Near Beer" and similar drinks can not be sold in local option territory, under the soft drink license. The following statement has been issued by the Attorney General:
"This department, through Attorney General Breathitt himself, has passed upon the matter finally, to the effect that drinks may not be sold under the 'Soft Drink License' that could produce intoxication. As local option territory increases in extent in this State, it is reasonable to anticipate that endeavor will be made to place such drinks as are described before the public, and in such a way as to subject those who may indulge in them to no sort of social condemnation; and its alleged innocuous will actually prove more pernicious to the young, if allowed, than the open saloon, into which the same people might never think of going. Until either the law or the high court makes a distinction authorizing the sale of malt beverages containing alcohol, it will be the ruling of this department that they are not allowable under a soft drink license, having that appreciable quantity, at all events, in them as would create even in large quantities any degree of intoxication."—Harradburg Republican.

New Trestle.

The trestle near town on the Springfield branch Railroad will be finished this week. The workmen will then go to Beck Fork, between Bardonia and Springfield, where they will erect an iron trestle over the Beech Fork. This structure was removed from over Salt River some time ago and a more commodious structure erected there. The new bridge just erected is a handsome structure and was made by the American Bridge Co. It is capable of holding the largest engine made and will no doubt prove quite a convenience to the railroad as they were unable to haul large loads heretofore.—Bardonia Standard.

WASHINGTON COUNTY BOY

Murdered By a Cowardly Mob at Newark, O., on last Friday Night

The remains of young Carl Etherington, the anti-saloon League detective who was killed at Newark, Ohio, last Friday night by a mob, arrived here Sunday night, and as there is considerable feeling over the matter, a large crowd was at the depot when the train arrived. The coffin was opened and the body identified by his father. The young man was born and reared near Williamsburg, and was 17 years of age, and a son of Mr. and Mrs. Harvel Etherington. He was a bright boy and was universally recognized as a good, honest and law abiding citizen and much indignation is felt here that he should have been the victim of a lawless and cowardly mob. His father is a prominent farmer and business man of the Williamsburg neighborhood. Mr. Etherington, the mother of the unfortunate young man is critically ill as the result of the treatment accorded her by the mob and is under the constant care of a physician.

On Monday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock funeral services were conducted at the Christian church in Williamsburg by Rev. Jesse Grubbs of Chaplin. The largest crowd that ever attended a funeral in Williamsburg was present. Many expressions of sympathy were heard and all without regard to class were loud in condemning the conduct of the officials of Licking county, Ohio.

The following specials from Newark tell of the horrible affair:

Newark, O., July 8.—Carl Etherington, twenty-two years old, employed Thursday night by the State Anti-Saloon League as a kind-tiger-raider, was lynched here at 10:35 o'clock tonight, following a day of almost continuous rioting. The heavy doors of the Licking county Jail were battered down, and Etherington was dragged from his cell. He was shot, kicked and bruised before the street was reached, and the finish followed quickly.

Editoring early in the evening confessed he killed William Howard, proprietor of the "Last Chance" restaurant and former Chief of Police, in a raid of alleged "peak-easies" in a raiding scuffle at 1:30 o'clock this afternoon, and narrowly escaped lynching at that time.

When news from the hospital that Howard had died passed over the city at 9 o'clock tonight, the fury of the mob took definite form. Large battalions were directed upon the doors of the jail, and the deputies were powerless. The doors fell after nearly an hour's attack.

Crying pitifully, Etherington, a curly-headed Kentuckian, who has been serving as a strikebreaker since he was released from the Marine service three months ago, was dragged forth. "I didn't mean to do it," he wailed. His cries fell upon deaf ears.

Fearing that the mob spirit would not be satisfied by one victim, Sheriff Linke immediately asked Adjutant General Way to ask for troops to protect six other "dry" raiders held at the city prison in another section of the town. A hurried guard was thrown out in their defense.

The mob, after the first taste of blood, seemed to quiet, but it is feared that they will storm the city prison before the night is finished.
Etherington's last moments, while he heard the mob battering down the doors, were spent in praying and writing a note to his parents, farmers residing near Williamsburg, Ky.
"What will mother say when she reads of this?" he kept moaning to the jailer.
Howard, it is charged, did not resist the detectives when they entered his place on the outskirts of the city. He, it is said however, put his arms about Etherington; as if to hold him, whereupon the officer fired a bullet into his head.

Striking Baltimore and Ohio railway employes declare that Etherington recently came to Newark as a strikebreaker, and that his feeling growing out of the strike had intensified that due to the raids today.

Although the mob about the jail tonight is menacing, no effort has been made to call out troops. The detectives who made the raid's arrival this morning armed with search and seizure warrants secured from the Mayor of Cincinnati, a nearby village. One of the first saloons visited was that of Louis Bolton, where a bartender, Edward McKenna, was hit over the head with brass knuckles. The detective who hit him was pursued by a crowd of people who quickly assembled, and he was rescued by the police with difficulty. The officers with their prisoner were followed by the mob to the jail.

Licking county, of which Newark is the county seat, is dry under the local option law but Anti-Saloon League officials declare the law is not enforced. Wayne B. Wheeler, State Superintendent, in an interview at Columbus tonight, declared to the situation was brought about by alleged negligence on the part of Mayor Etherington in not upholding the law. Wheeler said that the detectives brought here for the raids today were secured at Cleveland.

Newark, O., July 9.—Adj. Gen. Weybrecht says Licking county officials, particularly Sheriff William Linke, are responsible for the lynching of Detective Carl Etherington here last night. He will so report to Gov. Harmon.

"The lynching easily could have been prevented," says Gen. Weybrecht. "The established fact that the mob worked at the jail for two hours tells of negligence. If troops had been called for when they should have been called, the State of Ohio would not now be disgraced."

Sheriff Linke did not call out the Newark company of the Ohio National Guard, G. E. Fourth Regiment. Capt. Priest says he was informed that it was not even necessary to have men at the Armory in case of emergency.

The Exhorts anti-mob law passed at the last session of the Legislature provides for immediate suspension of the Sheriff in cases where he does not protect prisoners in his custody. Suspension is followed by a hearing before the Governor.

KILLED BY NIGHT TRAIN

Will White Well Known Colored Man Killed Sunday Night.

A short time after the train arrived on last Sunday night the body of Will White a well known colored man was found lying upon the railroad track about distance below the depot. Those who reached him first state that he was breathing when first discovered. An examination revealed the fact that he had suffered a crushed skull. The indications being that he had been struck by some hard substance. Blood stains found on one of the cars, showed that the train had struck him. It was thought for a time that the negro had possibly not met with foul play.

The Coroner's inquest was held Monday and a considerable amount of testimony introduced in order to ascertain as to who was responsible for his death. The jury returned a verdict, finding that White came to his death by being struck by the train. White was an industrious colored citizen, well known in Springfield. Several years ago he was engaged in a difficulty with another negro in which he received a shot in the knee, which disabled him somewhat, and he had to walk the remainder of his days on a wooden peg.

There is more Catarrh in this section of country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven, catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and improves the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address: F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio. Sold by Druggists, 75c.

Lightning's Damage

Monday night during the severe storm lightning struck the residence of Mrs. Nannie Moore in two places, causing considerable damage, but by a miracle the house escaped being set on fire. The bolt made a circuit of the parlor, just below the ceiling, tearing off the paper into bits and scattering it over the floor. None of the pieces were larger than a man's hand, and on the outside some of the weather boarding was torn off. The other place where the lightning struck was in a rear room upstairs near the top of the window. A clean-cut hole was made in the wall, as if a cannon ball had been shot through, and the plastering was buried across the room striking the bed occupied by Mr. Glave Vivion, who was spending the night with Mr. Dan Moore, but fortunately he escaped a shock. The lightning burst its way down the side of the window and flooring of the room. The storm seemed to have centered over "Oakwood," for the same night one of the magnificent oak trees in the yard was split by the lightning.—Harradburg Herald.

Sustains Lower Court

Sometime ago Mr. J. O. Vansardall killed two valuable dogs belonging to Mr. W. F. Farney which had stayed upon his premises and were chasing some turkeys in a field where there was a flock of sheep. In attempting to get over the fence the two dogs were caught and Mr. Vansardall beat them to death with a fence rail. The case was tried in the Mercer County Court and decided in favor of Mr. Vansardall. Mr. Farney appealed but the higher court upheld the decision of the lower and upheld the law upon such cases. It is as follows: Every person owning, having or keeping any dog shall be liable to party injured for all damages done by such dog. If no recovery shall be had in case the person injured is at the time upon the premises of the dog after night, or engaged in some lawful act during the day-time; and it shall be lawful for any person to kill, or cause to be killed, any dog which he may find roaming at large on his premises without the presence of the owner or keeper of such dog; and to kill, or cause to be killed, any dog which may be found killing, worrying or injuring cattle outside of the enclosure of the owner of the dog; or may kill or cause to be killed any dog having the disease known as "rabies" or that there are reasonable grounds to believe has such.—Harradburg Herald.

The Newark Tragedy

We are supposed to be living in a civilized country, and in a civilized age, and we are caused to pale and shudder with horror at the very thought of the incursions in pioneer days, of the American Indians—savages, and the story of the reign of terror in France when the streets of Paris ran with human blood as gruesome and repulsive to our finer sensibilities and we find ourselves indulging the thought that such times are forever past, and we find a certain sense of security in the belief that civilization has displaced savagery, and that the rights of life and liberty are fortified by the ministrations of law. In fine, that we have progressed from all that. But we are awakened from our ideal dream of peaceful security, by the howling of an angry mob, and the pleading cries of a headless boy with tears streaming from his eyes, calling, "I didn't go to do it," and when the officers of the law have practically thrown him into this den of human hyenas, may we not well stop and question as to whether this is progress or retrogression.

Mob law is never justifiable, and no mob has ever taken human life that was not itself guilty of a greater crime than the unfortunate victim who suffers at his hands. A mob is animated by no desire for justice. Its only motive is revenge. Yet however there may be mitigating circumstances with even a mob's action, for the victim of its wrath may at least have been guilty of some crime. Not in the Newark, Ohio, case, however, we find no such mitigating circumstances. To begin with we have a "dry town" suffering in a more aggravated form, those evils which a dry town is heir to, namely "speakeasies" or in Kentucky parlance "blind tigers." The regular officers of the town have shown no disposition or will to interfere with the illegal traffic. Special detectives are employed, one of whom is a curly headed lad of seventeen, the pride of a Kentucky mother. True to his oath as an official he proceeds to discharge his duty, he encounters the difficulties which every man does who has to do with the lawless. First we find him struck by a negro, then a white man, a former chief of police, throws his arm about him. For what? Was it the embrace of a friend? and what motive had he other than harm, and taking in the seriousness of the situation the young man did what anyone would have done under similar circumstances, fired to save his life. As for the man, young Etherington killed we know nothing further than that he was former chief of police, and a man of some prominence. But his conduct on the fatal day was such as to justify any man especially an officer in taking his life. The fact that he was a former police officer makes his conduct all the more inexcusable and aggravated on his part for his resistance to a representative of the law. Summed up, the killing was plainly a case of justifiable self defense. Then when the unfortunate boy was arrested a threatening mob paced the streets for half a day and not the slightest effort was made by those whose duty it was to provide for his protection. Any officers of the city and county you knew the situation, you knew the impending danger, why didn't you call for help? If you were unable to handle the situation why didn't you call for the troops that would have been so gladly furnished by those higher officials of the State who do believe in law enforcement and the protection of human life. Why was there not a guard selected from the good citizens of the town. Law and Order League where were you? For what purpose were you organized. Was it to stand idly by while a man is brutally and unmercifully tortured and put to death, and then come forth from your obscurity and send news of the occurrence to the benefit ones. Law and Order League! What Rot! Why didn't you demonstrate by your conduct that you were worthy of the name you have given yourselves, and that harmless boy would today have been alive and Licking county would not stand disgraced before the world. Go hide yourselves! And where were the Sheriff and his deputies? Where was the police force? Not even a word of protest was ever heard from them. The sheriff who as conservator of the peace and the jailer as his custodian and keeper, whose duty it was to have protected him at the risk of their lives, struck not one blow in his defense, not one protest, but by their conduct gave the acts of the mob their tacit consent. Are you may say you were powerless, so is any official who lays down. Did you try to protect him? Did you desire to? If you were in good faith why didn't you make an effort to defend him and to find whether you were powerless or not? Why didn't you shoot? When the mob was at the jail working for two hours trying to break the door there was ample time to have collected a guard. Not even a large one would have been necessary. The sheriff and the police force would have been sufficient. For a few shots fired, and a few dead men would have been sufficient to have cooled the ardor of the mob. And the cold blooded coolness of a Mayor who after making a speech retired to his couch and refused to allow the boy's peril to ruffle his peaceful slumbers. The mob came, the jail bars were breaking beneath the battering rams of the mob. The Mayor still sleeps! For two hours the mob was at their work. The Mayor still sleeps! He, whose duty it was to have been most watchful, has left the boy to his fate. Truly will not the ghost of murdered Etherington haunt his pillow for years to come, and cry out to him "Sleep no more."

The mob, his said was 500 strong, we would rather not believe this to be true, for we regret that anywhere in the United States there is a town the size of Newark, in which 500 such men could be found. Five hundred cowardly murderers dragging a boy forth and murdering him in cold blood. Cowards who even took their wives along and their children so that they might learn their first lesson in crime, and incredible as it may seem cutting memories from the pole on which died a better man than any who would even endorse his taking off.

But fortunately, justice is not dead in Ohio, and the good law abiding element of Ohio and of Licking county are not willing that so heinous a crime should be unpunished and its perpetrators go unpunished of justice. Gov. Harmon is showing that he is equal to the situation. He has taken a stand in favor of law enforcement, by suspending the Mayor and appointing one in his stead who has succeeded in procuring the arrest of several men charged with the murder of Etherington. The Governor is to be commended for taking the steps he has and we believe he will be able to bring the murderers to justice and to repair in so far as human justice can, the injury that has been suffered.

THE COMMITTEE

Washington County Boy Murdered by Mob

The following letter was received by Mr. Hartwell Etherington from W. B. Wheeler, superintendent of the Ohio Anti-Saloon League.

"Ohio Anti-Saloon League, Columbus, O.—Mr. Hartwell Etherington, Willisburg, Ky.—Dear Sir: As I understand, you are the father of Mr. Carl Etherington, who was lynched last night at Newark, O. A great many conflicting statements have gone into the papers concerning what your son was supposed to have said just before he was killed. The men who were nearest to him give me information that makes me believe he died like a hero rather than a coward. I hope that you will not consider the services, in which he was engaged as unworthy of a son of yours.

"He was deputized as a special officer, and was killed while doing his duty. I believe the outcome of it all will be a better law enforcement and a better condition of affairs in this part of the State. Kindly express to Mrs. Etherington my deepest sympathy in the loss which you have sustained in his death. You will both, however, have the satisfaction of knowing that he died in an effort to do his duty and to have the laws of the State of Ohio enforced. Yours very cordially,

W. B. WHEELER,
"Superintendent and Attorney"

CARL ETHERINGTON

Many messages of sympathy and condolences have been received at the Etherington home, one being a telegram from the Licking County Law and Order League of Newark, Ohio, which is as follows:

"Newark, Ohio, July 11.—Mr. and Mrs. Etherington, Willisburg, Ky.—Licking County Law and Order League, representing thousands of our best citizens and recognizing the great service rendered by your son, Carl Etherington, in the interest of law and order in the county, express their profound regret at his tragic death and tender their sincerest sympathy to you in this hour of your sorrow.

"We, the Licking County Law and Order League."

Thousands Have Kidney Trouble and Never Suspect It.
How To Find Out.
Fill a bottle or common glass with your water and let it stand twenty-four hours; a brick dust sediment, or milky appearance, indicates an unhealthy condition of the kidneys; too frequent urination, or pain in the back, are also symptoms that tell you the kidneys and bladder are out of order and need attention.

What To Do.
There is comfort in the knowledge so often expressed, that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy, fulfills almost every wish in correcting kidney, pairs in the back, kidney, liver, bladder and every part of the urinary passage. Corrects inability to hold water, causes inability to go often, or, if necessary, follows use of liquor, wine or beer, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often through the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and immediate effect of Swamp-Root is health restoring. It stands the highest recommendation of those who have used it. If you need a medicine you should have the best. Sold by druggists, city-cent, and con-disal stores.

You may have a sample bottle sent free by mail. Address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Swamp-Root, N. Y. Mention this paper and remember the name, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

One Way to Make Everybody Happy

Please the whole family today by bringing home a loaf of Dolly Bread.

They all will like the taste of bread made with malt and with the moisture baked in by superheated steam.

For Dolly Bread is made in a new way—it is baked in great steam ovens, superheated to 400 degrees. That is why it is so moist, with a flavor that is simply delicious.

Dolly Bread

is rushed to us every morning by fast express—from the great bakeries of the Grocers' Baking Company, reaching our store almost as quickly as it does the grocers right in Louisville.

The forty expert bakers of the Grocers' Baking Company will work for you, at 5c a day—think how much that means. Isn't that whole lot better than letting your wife bake in a hot kitchen stove? And even then there is no bread quite so good as Dolly.

MOTHER VISION SALES SHIP AT SEA

APPEARS TO YOUNG SEAMAN IN DREAM AND WARNS HIM OF DANGER.

BARELY AVERTS A CRASH

Woman Herself Also Dreamed on the Same Night That Her Sailor Son Was in Grave Peril of a Collision.

Portland, Me.—While coasters, especially the hard-headed down-east Yankees, share few of the superstitions or queer notions of deep watersmen, they are not all so intensely practical that they can't take a useful hint, even when it is given in a mysterious way. There are men sailing out of Bangor today who believe all that they see or hear in dreams, and down at Castine lives a man who tells earnestly of how his vessel and all hands were saved by a vision, his own mother appearing to him in the dead of night, after having called his name in vain, and pointing out to windward, where a big ship was bearing down upon them. He is Capt. J. A. Webster—but let him tell his own story:

"I shipped on board a vessel called the Grand Turk, commanded by Capt. John P. Nichols, in Bangor, in 1882. She was what they called a brigantine, full-rigged brig forward, fore and aft masted, with the mainmast with top gall and top gallant sail, with high quarter deck for cabin, steeple for the masts in the forward end, rail from main deck about three feet high. I was twenty-two years old. In the winter of 1884 I went to New Orleans for a lot of molasses for New York. The second day out the wind came around dead ahead and blew fresh southerly. Had to put her on the wind blow smart and we had to take in all the light sails and put her under snug sail for the night. There was quite a little sea making up night came on and it was quite dark. It was my watch below from 8 to 12, and I was pretty sleepy.

"The first thing that I knew I heard my name called in a quick, sharp voice. I recognized my mother's voice. It was very dark in our room. As soon as I opened my eyes I saw the image of my mother as plain as could be, with a terrible look of fear and grief on her face, standing at the foot of the steps to the companionway. She looked at me and then pointed her hand away off to the windward, toward the starboard bow, as we were on that tack, and vanished instantly. I started upon the run, bare-footed and bare-headed, over the deck, and up the fore-rigging about twenty-five feet could hear around a sound resembling thunder in the distance. I did not seem to feel nervous or excited. The sound kept growing louder; then I knew there was a vessel coming for us, and it was pretty dark. I presently could see the water foaming under her bow and sparkling like diamonds, and could see the dim outlines of a big vessel coming right for us. She would have struck us right between the two masts or near the mainmast. As soon as I could see what it was best to do I hauled up as loudly as I could to the man at the wheel: 'Hard up your helm, for God's sake!—she's coming!'

"That was done in an instant. She paid off and gathered headway. By this time the ship was pretty close on, and I hauled up as loudly as I could. Then I saw a light on the bow and heard a man pass the word aft.

"The ship swung to the left, rattled in the wind and I could hear men talking and could see several lights on board, and by that time we were pretty well out of her way. This was all done in less time than it takes to tell it.

"In the summer I came home, and my folks were all delighted to see me. Mother said that she never expected to see me again. Then she told me she dreamed that she saw a great ship that was going to run down our vessel, and it scared her almost to death. Father told me she called my name out several times in her sleep.

Men's Feathered Friends.
Men of science are generally agreed that birds are nature's great check on the excess of insects, and that they maintain the balance between plant and insect life. Ten thousand caterpillars, if left unchecked, could destroy every blade of grass on an acre of cultivated land. The insect population of a single cherry tree is estimated to be as high as 100,000,000. The bird population of cultivated country districts has been estimated at from 700 to 1,000 a square mile. This is a small number, considering the number of insects every day, the latter are prevented from becoming the scourge of the land by the feathered enemies.

CURTISS ON AN AERIAL WAR

The next time two nations are at war—it is to be hoped there will be no next time—airships will swarm like deadly insects over the old-fashioned battlefields, dropping their terrible poison in the shape of picric acid bombs before the unaided eyes of the combatants.

This is the idea of Colonel H. Curtiss, aviator, who says the huge battleship Florida, recently launched, and other dreadnaughts will be useless in a battle with airships.

"More than 1,000 aeroplanes can be launched for the price of a single battleship," he adds. "I was much interested in the launching of the Florida. I heartily subscribe to the proposition we are making to defend our country from all aggression. But I do not believe that we are going about it in the right way in view of modern going about it in the right way in view of modern conditions. Battleships have been impressive engines of war, but their day is superseded the great floating structure of steel with its immense guns."

"Imagine, for instance, that a hostile fleet is anchored 20 miles off New York. Suppose it consists of some of the most powerful of modern vessels like the Florida. Before it could begin to shell the city our fleet of aeroplanes would start from the New Jersey State. Suppose we have only 200 of them. Each is able to carry 200 pounds of bombs."

Bombs were used in the South African war, which weighed not more than ten pounds. They were made of picric acid. So far as I know, there is nothing more deadly. The missiles can be hurled down on such a broad target as a war vessel with great precision.

"During the day the aeroplanes could soar away at a great height. They could be painted the color of the sky. Before the lookouts on the battleship could detect the mosquito-like flyers the aeroplanes could swing down and blow the warships to pieces. Before the ships could bring any of their enormous guns into action the aeroplanes would be off and safe."

Before another war has passed away many nations will devote the millions they are now spending on dreadnaughts to building fleets of aeroplanes. It is inevitable.
